

VEITIA OR MADRID CODEX

Madrid 1986

This 138-page codex on Aztec culture is a copy commissioned in 1755 by Veytia, one of the successors of the outstanding archaeologist Boturini; it is the last in the Magliabecchiano group of codices. Conserved in the Royal Palace Library in Madrid.

The facsimile measures approximately 21 x 13.5 cm. Study, transcription and notes by Professor José Alcina Franch of Madrid Complutense University and Professor Francisco Morales Padrón of the University of Seville; a summary in English is also available.

Limited international edition of 980 numbered and certified copies; edition reserved for Spain now out of print.

